

Module 5: What Are Our Ideas And How Can We Help Each Other Get There?

Introduction

In our last module, you'll share your ideas for an initiative in your community, developed through previous sessions and homework, with other course participants to receive constructive feedback. This session is designed to help you refine your presentation skills by succinctly summarizing key concepts for your idea, while learning from your peers' presentations and innovative ideas.

Our goal is for everyone to leave this session with validated and improved initiative ideas. More information about this session will be shared during the course. You don't need previous work or ideas prior to enrolling in the learning community. The presentation will be worked on weekly through the homework of each module.